Not much in it other than a strong endorsement of immediate NATO membership for the Baltics and a strong (I thought) critique of extending MFN -- as she put it, "engagment to Bill does not mean endorsement of all his policies."

Subject: Update on Turkish Claims in the Aegean [UNCLASSIFIED]

Importance: High

To

Jim from Don and Miriam:

As mentioned briefly in our Friday memo on Cyprus/Turkey/Greece Next Steps, the Turks have unhelpfully asserted additional Aegean claims: Ankara believes that there are 4 islands (3 inhabited by a total of 1400+ Greeks) in the "grey zone" that was never demarcated, i.e., these islands are in the Imia/Kardak category only 3 out of 4 are inhabited.

EUR has prepared if asked press guidance stating: "it is our understanding that most of the islands in question are Greek-inhabited, and that the four islands are widely considered to be Greek." Neither Embassy in the field likes the guidance: Athens wants us to say they are Greek and Ankara wants us to take the question and defer saying anything until we have a definitive answer. EUR has L and the Geographer's office working on an analysis of the "grey zone" to enable us to answer questions more definitively, if possible, and if not to recommend Turkey take questions to the ICJ or a similar body.

The issue for today is whether to defer using the if asked guidance for a few days, until after the NAC on Thurs-Fri where Madeleine intends to push Aegean/Cyprus issues, as Marc and Dick did at the Bilderberg Conference weekend before last. I have spoken to Marc several times about this over past few days. He was and still is leaning to the if-asked approach. I have a modest preference to have the legal/geographer's answer first, but -- unless you feel strongly -- would defer on what is a close tactical call. Agree _____
